Revising a Syllabus and 2-3 Assignments

Your assignment is to think about how AI might be ethically and productively added to the writing processes of one of your writing or writing-intensive courses.

That's It?
Yeah, pretty much. You can revise your materials any which way you like, in whatever way makes sense for you and your classes and your students.

That's Mighty Generous of You
In know. I'm nice that way.

But There Are Some Basic Requirements
For this project, please do the following:
1. Pick a course to work on and at least 2-3 writing assignments from it. You are welcome to work on more than 2-3 assignments if you'd like.
2. Submit a copy of the course syllabus and the assignment sheets in their current, unrevised form. Just submit them as is.
3. Reflect on your experience writing an op-ed piece using AI tools.
4. Think about how you might ethically and productively integrate some of those AI tools and experiences into your course and assignments.
5. Revise your syllabus and assignment sheets.
6. Submit your revised syllabus and assignment sheets for sharing on the WAC website.
